Introduction to delineation of appearance and character in natal astrology. The following document is a hand-written analysis of Jimmy Carter made using the principles of medieval predictive astrology. The discipline of natal astrology focuses on the fate of an individual based on a horoscope cast for the moment of birth. Within natal astrology, the 1st house occupying the eastern horizon at birth describes the native: physical vitality, appearance, and character. Between the Hellenistic and Medieval eras several specialized models have been developed to assess these characteristics. They include longevity (vitality and length of life), physiognomy (form and shape of the face and body), victor of the chart (overall life purpose), manners (social conduct including ethical behavior), and temperament (elemental mix of fire, earth, air, and water with applications in medical astrology). Prior research has presented models and results for longevity (A Rectification Manual: The American Presidency, Chapter 4) and physiognomy (Astrological Physiognomy: History and Sources & Astrological Physiognomy: Empirical Tests of the Leo Rising Decan). This paper presents one of forty horoscopes chosen to populate an initial data set to investigate the victor.

Victor of the Chart. Included are two competing models for computing the victor of the chart said to be the single most powerful planet in the horoscope. According to Plato's follower Porphyry, by configuration in the natal horoscope the planet signifying the victor of the chart shows the life choice made by the soul prior to incarnation. Plato explains the details of his soul model in The Myth of Er found in the closing pages of his work The Republic. Porphyry and his peer Antiochus offer specific rules for determining the victor of the chart. The method of Antiochus/Porphyry is compared to a later method for determining the victor suggested by the Jewish Rabbi Abraham ben Meir Ibn Izra who was an active philosopher and astrologer in the 12th century. For a discussion of these two models, see the companion paper Victor of the Chart: Testing Methods of Antiochus/Porphyry and Ibn Ezra which serves as a key to what is presented here.

Manners. Plato was not alone among Greek philosophers in conceiving models for the soul. Aristotle's model of vegetative, sensitive, and intellective soul levels assigned respectively to the plant, animal, and human kingdoms was taken up by Ptolemy who found a correspondence between the sensitive and intellective soul and Moon and Mercury in the natal horoscope. Configuration of the Moon and Mercury, with special emphasis given to their rulers, is a second method for analyzing the soul. Ptolemy introduces this model in Tetrabiblos III.13 "Of the Quality of the Soul". Subsequent authors refer to this model as "Significators of the Soul" or "Manners". A summary template for the Moon and Mercury is presented in the paper and will be further developed in future versions.

Jimmy Carter (October 1, 1924 - living)

It was 1930 the year after the infamous Black Friday stock market crash which ushered in the Great Depression. Noting the uncertain economic environment at the ripe age of 7, Jimmy Carter decided to join the Navy as a way of attending college without the need for his family to supply tuition. Graduating in June 1946 from the Annapolis Naval Academy immediately following America's WWII victory, his future as a military officer was uncertain. His first two years of naval service were a disappointment, serving on the USS Wyoming and the USS Mississippi both of which were never allowed to leave the confines of the naval gunnery range in Chesapeake Bay. Carter's 1948 promotion to a submarine officer training program was a step up; and with his dogged determination and attention to detail, by 1952 Carter advanced to an elite nuclear submarine program run by Admiral Hyman Rickover. Sent to the Naval Reactors Branch of the Atomic Energy Commission, Carter’s assignment was the U.S.S. Seawolf, one of the first two U.S. nuclear submarines.

Then he got the call in early 1953. His father was losing weight. Seven months later his father James Earl Carter was dead of pancreatic cancer. On the brink of a successful naval career during the height of the Cold War, Jimmy Carter decided to return to Plains to run the family peanut farm. His wife Rosalyn was strongly opposed to Jimmy's decision which almost cost him his marriage. His brother Billy, who always he assumed he would take over the farms after his father passed away, was also nonplussed. Nevertheless, Jimmy managed the family peanut farm well, increasing yields and income. A year after Jimmy returned to Plains, the Supreme Court issued its 1954 Brown vs. Board of Education decision which ended the policies of segregation endemic to the Southern states where Carter lived. But for Carter himself, it was the 1962 Supreme Court Baker vs. Carr decision - establishing the one man one vote rule - which in one fell swoop opened men like himself to the chance of political office. The synchronicity of Carter's October 1, 1962 decision to run for the Georgia State Senate - the same date the black student James Meredith entered the University of Mississippi under police protection - was an omen of the importance human rights would play throughout his political career.

Carter ran for and lost the 1966 Democratic primary for Governor of Georgia, but he returned to win the campaign in 1970. In the intervening years, Carter was led to a born again Christian experience by his sister Ruth who was an evangelical Christian. Carter's Southern Baptist conservative religious background was an asset on the national stage following the moral decay of the Nixon Presidency. A fresh new face on the heels of Nixon (and Ford who pardoned him), Jimmy Carter announced his Presidential run on December 12, 1974, well ahead of most candidates. His careful planning and favorable press coverage were instrumental to his 1976 Presidential Victory.

Once in the White House, Carter faced an energy crisis, double digit inflation, and the Iranian hostage crisis. Carter's detail-oriented management style and melancholic temperament were an excellent fit for farm management but not for a nation facing significant economic and social distress. Carter's "malaise" speech of July 15, 1979 typified the type of realism Carter felt appropriate; yet this style failed to endear him to the American people. To his stated goals of emphasizing human rights in foreign policy, Carter successfully brokered the Camp David Accords and the Panama Canal Treaty. Curiously however, Carter maintained ties with the Shah of Iran who with western support had long exercised human rights abuses against the Iranian religious leader Sayyed Ruhollah Moosavi Khomeini (the "Ayatollah Khomeini") and other Iranian dissidents. Proponents of the Iranian Revolution saw the political rise of Khomeini as justifiable blowback against America for its 1953 CIA-backed coup which ousted the democratically elected Mohammed Mosedegh and reinstalled the Shah and his autocratic regime.

Losing to Ronald Reagan in 1980, Jimmy Carter has filled the last thirty years of his life with public service to the home building organization Habitat for Humanity and with the Carter Center whose accomplishments have included elimination of 99% of Guinea worm disease in Africa and election monitoring throughout the world. Maintaining close ties with the Middle East since the days of his 1979 Camp David Accords, Jimmy has used the Carter Center to promote continued dialog in the Mideast. Never afraid to argue the Palestinian cause, for the State Department Carter crossed the line of acceptable political boundaries when he met with an exiled Hamas leader in Syria in 2008. Despite this controversy, Carter has demonstrated proven success in many difficult negotiations. Most recently, Carter traveled to North Korea in August 2010 when he secured the release of a U.S. citizen held as a political prisoner. The only President awarded the Nobel Peace Prize while out of office (2002), Jimmy Carter maintains an active schedule.

The standard one volume biography of Carter is Peter Bourne's Jimmy Carter: A Comprehensive Biography from Plains to Post-Presidency published by Scribner in 1997. There have been a few other recent books published on Carter's post-presidency which weigh Carter's achievements in the thirty years against what most Americans consider a disappointing Presidency. I suspect the definitive Carter biography has yet to be written. Carter himself has written so many books that Wikipedia created its own page for them: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jimmy_Carter_bibliography. They include his 2003 historical novel on the American Revolution The Hornet's Nest (2003), the first work of fiction penned by a US President. Recommended is Turning Point: A Candidate, a State, and a Nation Come of Age (1992) which recalls Carter's first successful election campaign in the wake of the 1962 Supreme Court's Baker vs Carr decision. Included in Keeping Faith: Memoirs of a President (1982) is an interesting day-by-day account of the 1979 Camp David Negotiations. Late medieval: sign 4, exaltation 4, triplicity lords (all) 3, bound 2, decan 1. Used by Schoener; taught by Zoller.

Fixed Stars from Janus 4.3 software. Criteria: conjunction within 2 degrees longitude.

Additional

Moon’s Configuration: Moon separates Mars and applies to Mercury, diurnal, conjunctional.

Moon-Mercury whole sign aspect? Yes. Moon sextile Mercury.

Do scoring methods agree? Both medieval systems agree on Mars-Mercury. The single point scoring system for the Moon is inconclusive; for Mercury, Venus/Leo is also suggested as a candidate.

Model Summary

(for model details see www.regulus-astrology.com/research.html)

Physiognomy

Ascendant sign – Libra
Ascendant sign ruler – Venus/Leo
Ascendant decan – Gemini
Ascendant decan ruler – Mercury/Virgo

Carter's facial appearance is a reasonable match to Willner's compressed ovate model for Libra, the rising sign. Venus/Leo adds 'celebrity' demeanor which in facial appearance takes the form of Carter's trademark wide big-toothed smile. Impact of Gemini and Mercury/Virgo on physiognomy is not obvious.

Longevity: living

By policy I do not delineate longevity for the living.

Victor of the Chart: Venus/Leo

Ibn Ezra's method highlights Venus and Saturn. Porphyry's Stage I expanded criteria favors Mercury, Venus, and Mars. I rate Mars unusable because of the conjunction with the South Node. Mercury in the 12th is also unusable. While Saturn/Scorpio is one source of Carter's melancholy and undoubtedly picks up Mideast national security themes, the Venus/Leo – Sun/Libra pairing, mutual reception by rulership, easily swamps all other choices.

I take Venus/Leo as candidate for victor for Carter's extensive alliances with celebrities, politics, and organizations which tackle illness (through rulership of the 6th of illness by exaltation).

The Venus-Sun mutual reception by sign grants Carter eminence as a world peacemaker.

Manners

Mars-Mercury.
