Introduction to delineation of appearance and character in natal astrology. The following document is a hand-written analysis of Alexander Hamilton made using the principles of medieval predictive astrology. The discipline of natal astrology focuses on the fate of an individual based on a horoscope cast for the moment of birth. Within natal astrology, the 1st house occupying the eastern horizon at birth describes the native: physical vitality, appearance, and character. Between the Hellenistic and Medieval eras several specialized models have been developed to assess these characteristics. They include longevity (vitality and length of life), physiognomy (form and shape of the face and body), victor of the chart (overall life purpose), manners (social conduct including ethical behavior), and temperament (elemental mix of fire, earth, air, and water with applications in medical astrology). Prior research has presented models and results for longevity (A Rectification Manual: The American Presidency, Chapter 4) and physiognomy (Astrological Physiognomy: History and Sources & Astrological Physiognomy: Empirical Tests of the Leo Rising Decan). This paper presents one of forty horoscopes chosen to populate an initial data set to investigate the victor.

Victor of the Chart. Included are two competing models for computing the victor of the chart said to be the single most powerful planet in the horoscope. According to Plato's follower Porphyry, by configuration in the natal horoscope the planet signifying the victor of the chart shows the life choice made by the soul prior to incarnation. Plato explains the details of his soul model in The Myth of Er found in the closing pages of his work The Republic. Porphyry and his peer Antiochus offer specific rules for determining the victor of the chart. The method of Antiochus/Porphyry is compared to a later method for determining the victor suggested by the Jewish Rabbi Abraham ben Meir Ibn Ezra who was an active philosopher and astrologer in the 12th century. For a discussion of these two models, see the companion paper Victor of the Chart: Testing Methods of Antiochus/Porphyry and Ibn Ezra which serves as a key to what is presented here.

Manners. Plato was not alone among Greek philosophers in conceiving models for the soul. Aristotle's model of vegetative, sensitive, and intellective soul levels assigned respectively to the plant, animal, and human kingdoms was taken up by Ptolemy who found a correspondence between the sensitive and intellective soul and Moon and Mercury in the natal horoscope. Configuration of the Moon and Mercury, with special emphasis given to their rulers, is a second method for analyzing the soul. Ptolemy introduces this model in Tetrabiblos III.13 "Of the Quality of the Soul". Subsequent authors refer to this model as "Significators of the Soul" or "Manners". A summary template for the Moon and Mercury is presented in the paper and will be further developed in future versions.

Alexander Hamilton (January 11, 1755 to July 12, 1804)

Described by John Adams as “the bastard brat of a Scotch peddler,” Alexander Hamilton immigrated to the United States as a teenager from the British West Indies where he had already chocked up his first professional stint in finance as a store clerk. Relying on ambition, a methodical pen, and a taste for military intrigue, Hamilton quickly rose to the highest ranks of government in a young nation whose ingredients for success did not require inherited wealth and status.

Enrolling in King’s College (now Columbia University) in late 1773, Hamilton first came to public attention when he wrote political editorials in response to pro-Loyalist pamphlets distributed by Samuel Seabury, a Church of England priest. Following the Battle of Bunker Hill in 1775 Hamilton volunteered to serve in the New York militia. By 1776 he had raised his own Artillery Company and was elected captain by his men. He joined George Washington’s regiment as aide on March 1, 1777 where he served for most of the Revolutionary War. In the Battle of Yorktown, Hamilton was granted command of an infantry battalion and achieved forward tactical battlefield success.

Hamilton, together with James Madison and Thomas Jefferson, ranks among America’s greatest political theorists. Writing in support of ratification of the United States Constitution, Hamilton penned 51 of the 85 articles known today as the Federalist Papers. As Washington’s Treasury Secretary, Hamilton wrote five reports to Congress. Best known are:

- First Report on the Public Credit, January 14, 1790
- Second Report on Public Credit, December 14, 1790
- Report on Manufactures, December 5, 1791

With arguments presented in the First Report, Hamilton was able to convince Congress that the Federal government should assume all state debts accumulated during the Revolution War. The price of the bargain was the decision to move the capital to Virginia, closer to Southern States who did not accumulate as much war debt as the Northern states. With the Second Report, Hamilton was given approval to form a National Bank. Unfortunately the speculation regarding bank stock produced the first US stock market crash in 1792 with Hamilton’s associate at the Treasury William Duer implicated. With this scandal, Hamilton’s political capital was spent and with it the chance of implementing an industrial policy as advocated in his Report on Manufactures.

Hamilton’s single-minded vision of a centralized government with a financial system not unlike Britain’s triggered a backlash against those who wished for America to move away from Britain’s mercantilist economy. Thomas Jefferson led this faction and created the Democratic-Republican Party who favored a more decentralized government. Hamilton’s personal affairs were another matter which drew criticism and created enmity among the political class. In a sexual affair with Maria Reynolds, Hamilton fell prey to a blackmail scheme initiated by Maria and her husband. Hamilton was not beyond self-criticism and published an explicit account of the affair in order to clear up any doubts the Reynolds Affair had involved debasement of the office of the Treasury. As a measure of the political tenor of the day, consider this criticism by John Adams who opposed both Hamilton’s Federalist politics and his personal indiscretions: Hamilton’s ambitions had their source in “a superabundance of secretions which he could not find whores enough to draw off.” He died from a gunshot during a duel against Aaron Burr, another one of his many enemies.

How to choose the correct birth year. Horoscopes case for 11-Jan-1755 and 11-Jan-1757 both emphasize Capricorn which matches a philosophy of power lodged within a centralized national government.

1755. Capricorn stellium: Mercury, Moon, Saturn, Sun, Venus. Mercury and the Sun are common to January 11 figures cast for both years. Delineating Moon/Capricorn as ‘need for government,’ Saturn/Capricorn as ‘building walls to maintain government,’ and Venus/Capricorn as ‘love of government,’ matches Hamilton’s obsession with creation of a centralized national government for the new American Republic. Configuration of Venus to the Sun merits attention. Venus-retrograde approaching her inferior conjunction is a relatively rare phenomenon. ‘Like a moth to a flame,’ the combust Venus entices Hamilton to engage in scandalous behavior and matches the Reynolds affairs.

1757. Capricorn stellium: Mercury, Mars, and the Sun. Inclusion of Mars distinguishes this year from 1755. As is detailed in AIB Chapter 6, Mars/Capricorn disputes the validity of a centralized government; this placement in the figure of James Madison captured Madison's anti-Federalist stance. Because Hamilton is pro-Federalist, Mars/Capricorn in the 1757 raises questions. While Mars/Capricorn could signify Hamilton's anti-Federalist enemies depending on the house rulership, the cleaner configuration would be to favor 1755 as the birth year, omitting the Mars/Capricorn influence from the 1757 birth year entirely. That is the option I have chosen to follow.

Stage I. Determine the Ascendant sign

Firdaria

Choice of the diurnal Firdaria series is consistent with the following matches to life affairs:

Major Mercury. 11-Jan-1773 to 10-Jan-1786. Overall theme: Develops and establishes credentials as a writer, staffer, and lawyer.

Mercury-Mercury. 11-Jan-1773 to 19-Nov-1774. Studies math at King's College.

Mercury-Moon. 20-Nov-1774 to 27-Sep-1776. Initial war service and staffer for Washington.

Mercury-Mars. 16-Jun-1780 to 24-Apr-1782. Front line military service at Yorktown.

Mercury-Sun. 25-Apr-1782 to 2-Mar-1784. Brevetted colonel.

Major Moon. 11-Jan-1786 to 10-Jan-1795. Period starts and ends with anti-tax rebellions led primarily by rural farmers (Shay's Rebellion in 1786 and the Whiskey Rebellion in 1794). Moon's placement in bound of Jupiter/Capricorn with Jupiter/Virgo-rx signifies Hamilton's Moon-signified interest in Federalism caused by rebellious farmers. Jupiter/Virgo direct signifies the farming class as a people and distilled spirits as an item. Jupiter/Virgo-rx signifies rebellion by these signifiers. Note that Jupiter is placed in the 5th of entertainment (which in the 18th century included taverns) and rules the 8th and 11th, both money houses, with the 8th associated with taxes and the 11th the King's money. In a parallel track, the period opens with Hamilton's call for the 1786 Annapolis Conference to revise the Articles of Confederation in favor of a stronger Federal government (direct predecessor of the 1787 Constitutional Convention). At the end of the period, Jay's Treaty is signed in order to maintain commercial ties with Britain to the benefit primarily of New England merchants who comprised the bulwark of the nascent Federalist faction. Hamilton's major Moon period closely overlaps with the Jupiter/Capricorn distribution in the Regulus USA National Horoscope (5-May-1787 to 3-May-1794).

Zodiacal Releasing from Spirit

The current rectification, revised in 2020, reflects my growing delineation and use of both Lots of Fortune and Spirit in the Hellenistic ZRS technique. One of the problems with my original 2009 rectification was placement of the Lot of Spirit in the 30th degree of Taurus. It is inconsistent with Hamilton's lifelong facility as a writer, staffer, lawyer, and advocate from his early teenage years as a counting house clerk to his final national literary role as an author of the Federalist Papers.

Among standouts documented in the ZRS table at the end of this report, both loosing of the bonds produced significant life reversals. L1 GE – L2 (SA) timed Hamilton's cited key turning point in his life – writing his famous hurricane letter which attracted sponsors for him to leave St. Kitts for the USA to further his education. L1 CA – L2 (CP) timed a fallout with Jefferson on diplomacy, a stock market panic, and the messy stop to the Reynolds affair which would later return and tarnish his reputation.

The two Aquarius periods as an adult (AQ = LOF10) timed the Annapolis and Constitutional conventions of 1786/1787 as well as the Jay Treaty in 1794/1795. Both of these were key professional highlights which established the Federalist party in the United States.

Conclusion. A diurnal figure with the Lot of Spirit in Gemini makes Taurus the rising sign. Note this configuration yields a MC degree of 9AQ51 which is partile conjunct the rectified Ascendant of George Washington at 9AQ01.

Stage II. Determine the Ascendant's range within 1-4 degrees

Annual Profections

A consistent findings of this victor study is the requirement that prominent stellia must time at least one and preferably multiple key life events on a 12 year cycle otherwise the rectification is likely wrong. Here are the dates for the profected Ascendant meeting the Capricorn planets by conjunction:

conj Mercury	21-May-62	21-May-74	21-May-86	21-May-98

conj Sun	14-Jan-63	14-Jan-75	14-Jan-87	14-Jan-99

1762/1763 series. Father deserted family, 1763.

1774/1775 series. 20-Sep-1774, begins study of math at King's College; 15-Dec-1774, Publishes "A Full Vindication of the Measures of Congress..."

1786/1787 series. Jan-1786, Proposed Annapolis Convention; 16-May-1786, birth of son Alexander; Sep-1786, Annapolis Convention convened.

1798/1799 series. No major events found but father dies 3-Jun-1799 shortly after ASC conj Sun.

Hamilton's facial shape is ovate, consistent with placement of both sign and decan rulers in Capricorn. Note this will be true for all three Taurus rising decans.

Longevity: 49y 6m 0d

Releaser and kadukhudhāh. Figure is diurnal and Sun/Capricorn/9th qualifies. Though combust, Saturn is past the conjunction to the Sun and gives 57 years. Actual lifespan is shorter.

Victor of the Chart: Saturn/Capricorn

Ibn Ezra's method favors Venus while Porphyry's Stage I criteria adds Mercury and Saturn. Hamilton is a horoscope example which in my view requires a judgment call on which reasonable people will disagree.

As the ruler of the stellium, Saturn/Capricorn commands our attention. As Federalist theorist and first Treasury Secretary of the United States, Saturn is the appropriate significator for the rules and theory that Alexander Hamilton wrote in the Federalist Papers which to the present day are the most cited legal documents in the history of the US Supreme Court. As for finance, consider that Benjamin Strong, the first President of the current Federal Reserve system also has Saturn/Capricorn in nearly the same degree. A comparison of the horoscopes of Strong and Hamilton deserves more study.

By dynamic activity, however, many of Hamilton's key life achievements were timed by Mercury Firdaria periods. I also find it curious that Hamilton ended his service as Treasury Secretary just 20 days after the start of his major Saturn Firdaria period. Were Saturn/Capricorn to be Hamilton's victor, normally I would expect a major chapter of his professional life to begin (not end) once the major Saturn Firdaria period started. This is something which just doesn't make sense based on other horoscopes in this victor study.

Mercury signifies Hamilton's skills as a writer, staffer, lawyer, and advocate throughout his life. The question from the victor perspective is whether Hamilton's life purpose can be explained by Mercury alone or whether we need recourse to Saturn. I remain uncomfortable with making a choice here but have to default to Saturn as the victor simply because of the long lasting nature of Federalist system of government and the Treasury Department for which Hamilton is closely identified.

Manners. Sign-based: Saturn; Bound-based: Jupiter/Mercury.
